Project Narrative *	The Earth Science Student Colloquium is an annual event, organized and fundraised by graduate students, that celebrates the research and achievements of students in the Earth Sciences or related fields. The ESSC includes student research talks, posters, a professional panel, a free dinner banquet, and a keynote address. MAGIP has consistently provided support for our GIS students by serving as judges in a GIS-based student poster competition. We sincerely request that MAGIP provides two or three members to serve as judges for the GIS student poster competition at our event this year. Among posters that clearly utilize GIS in the research design, we would like MAGIP to award small cash prizes to first, second, and third place. The poster session will take place from 3-5 pm on Wednesday, April 17th, in the Strand Union Building ballroom A. The three award winners will be notified during our dinner and awards banquet. We think that awarding students who are conducting excellent GIS-based research is a great way to encourage our students to further their GIS-centered ambitions and, for those who aren't currently using GIS, to consider how GIS can contribute to their research. MAGIP is more than welcome to attend the entire event, which is free to the public, including the research talks starting at 8 am and the dinner starting at 5:30.
Project Start Date *	Wednesday, April 17, 2019
Project Completion Date	Wednesday, April 17, 2019
Applicant Resources to be committed to this project*	The Earth Science Student Colloquium Committee is providing the venue, snacks and refreshments, the dinner, and is paying for the student research posters for the poster session.
